

This response was submitted to the consultation held by the Nuffield Council on Bioethics on Give and take? Human bodies in medicine and research between April 2010 and July 2010. The views expressed are solely those of the respondent(s) and not those of the Council.

Dr Howaida Ebead

Question 1

Embryo transplantation would be possible in a certain time. Seeking abortion for others may take place in the assisted reproductive technology.

Question 2

brain and gametes.

Question 3:

yes

Question 4

Information and data concerned each body material would have its own sheet explaining its cost, risk and benefit.

Question 5

if the individual is a patient the benefit could some sort of health insurance. If he or she is a volunteer explaining the risk and offering any type of cost according to his or her desire.

Question 6

Because we cannot know exactly what is the future progress in research so we have to explain that a body material may be used for something helpful to others not known now

Question 7

an adult one can decide according to his or her own believes the purposes to which the material would be used after explaining to him all purposes

Question 8

To myself a purpose would be good if it does not harm and looking for a good value to the human being in future.

Question 9

other own believes

Question 10

value above all is keeping natural balance and must be taken into consideration

Question 11

No I do not think so whatever the return but nothing free. it can be left as an option to volunteer.

Question 12

duty might arise if it will go to son or daughter

Question 13

same as the previous answer

Question 14

Yes always we have to try. Needs more pressing that belong to continuity such as giving birth.

Question 15

some sort of health insurance

Question 16

If they are effective without harm it's ok. No difference

Question 17

if I think that it lowers the sense of human being as a high quality race by nature

Question 18

no difference

Question 19

no

Question 20

stem cell technology with tissue/organ cell line culture. Especially success in gametes creation

Question 21

no

Question 22

by witness

Question 23

yes

Question 24

no difference

Question 25

the family members have rights of veto if the wishes unknown after death

Question 26

First own but if no wishes then family. if no family then court

Question 27

yes

Question 28

yes by participating in information for others and in feedback

Question 29

If the material is gametes which would give birth in the future especially after death, there must be a degree of control.

Question 30

Assumption that gametes can be created from stem cell culture and these gametes can be fertilized and give birth of a human being from culture in lab.