

This response was submitted to the call for evidence by the Nuffield Council on Bioethics on Emerging techniques to prevent inherited mitochondrial disorders: ethical issues between January 2012 and February 2012. The views expressed are solely those of the respondent(s) and not those of the Council.

Anonymous 19

If a simple technique done like IVF can save generations from a life time of pain and problems then my sister and I would very much agree to and if available when we had our children we would have had it done here in the UK.

PS: my sister & brother and I only have a very mild mitochondria but we have all passed it on.